

NATURE AND TRADITION IN HEALING

The beauty of the landscape, the beneficial microclimate of the area, the medicinal waters suitable for both internal and external use as well as the medicinal mofette gas maths all make Parádfürdő a nationally and internationally renowned health resort.

Surrounded by the Mátra Hills, Parádfürdő Hospital is one of the top rehabilitation hospitals of Hungary, where wide variety of locomotor, gastrointestinal, digestive and gynaecological conditions are treated. Parádfürdő Hospital is located on the northern slopes of the Mátra Hills, 110 km from Budapest.

THE HEALING POWER OF WATERS

In Parád there are various different kinds of medicinal waters, the best known being the sulphurous „csevice” water and the ferrous-alum bathing water which has been used for medicinal purposes since 1813. The therapeutic value of the mineral waters originating from the local springs is incalculable.

- ferrous-alum water: Primarily used for special gynaecological purposes as a tub bath.

- sulphurous, bi-carbonated acid-water - Csevice or Parád Water: Effective in cases of gastrointestinal disorders, pancreatic and biliary disorders, chronic constipation, as well as in catarrhal conditions (airway, urinary catarrhs), taken in the form of a drinking cure.

MOFETTE – MEDICINAL GAS BATH

In Hungary the only natural carbon-dioxid gas discharges can be found in the Mátra Hills, a true balneological treasure chest. The medicinal gas can be employed in the high-quality care of vascular diseases and certain rheumatic disorders, such as chronic arterial and lymphatic diseases of the extremities, vascular complications associated with diabetes, reconstructive vascular surgery, catheter dilatation and after stent implantation. Some success was also achieved in treatment of Raynaud's syndrome. The Mofette bath is available in the neighbouring Erzsébet Park Hotel*** superior. Referral by a medical specialist is essential. Favourable effects can be achieved by cure consisting of 10-15 sessions.
